Every Monday morning at Campion House . . .

. . . the editorial staff of AMERICA gathers around the long table in the board room to plan the coming issue. Topics culled from the week's news events and the trends of the times have been submitted beforehand by the editors. Once the meeting has opened with a prayer, the order of the morning is free discussion. Assignments of subjects for the coming week's Comment and Editorial pages are made at the close of the session. Work on another issue of AMERICA has begun.
